OPENING DOORS TO JUDAISM

Temple Sinai recognizes that people enter congregational life through many doors, reflecting their varied and personal experiences and perspectives.

Our variety of Shabbat and weekday services, our all-encompassing approach to Jewish learning and our willingness to engage our congregants and community reflect our passion for encountering God, learning Torah, growing Jewish observance and our commitment to our people and the State of Israel. We believe that living by these teachings leads to a life filled with good deeds and fosters a love of all humanity.

Our mission is to provide a welcoming and caring spiritual community where we gather, study and worship as Reform Jews who aspire to live the critical values of our faith:

- A God-centered Judaism that combines respect for Jewish tradition with a progressive spiritual outlook.
- A dedication to learning and living Torah, to Avodah (worshipping God through prayer and deed) and to what our tradition calls G'milut Chasadim (pursuing justice, peace and acts of loving kindness).
- A commitment to our connection with all other Jews (K'lal Yisrael) with a special focus on the State of Israel and World Jewry.
- A community-focused Judaism that honors the needs of the individual and the community grounded on the values of egalitarianism and inclusiveness.

TEMPLE SINAI CENTERS OF JEWISH LIFE

To address our congregation's diversity, Temple Sinai has formed four Centers of Jewish Life, each providing a unique opportunity to harness the energy of our congregants, frame programs large and small, and engage all who wish to claim their rightful place in our community:

The Neshama Center for Jewish Spirituality, to foster personal spirituality and connection to God.

The Midrash Center for Jewish Learning, to create opportunities for lifelong engagement with our rich heritage of knowledge, wisdom, tradition and ritual.

The B'racha Center for Jewish Connections, to provide the means for our entire Family of Families, regardless of their life situation, to find friendship and support in our congregation.

The Tikkun Olam Center for Jewish Social Justice, to provide the means for all our members to engage in social activism consistent with our highest vision and values as Reform Jews.

By Opening Doors to Judaism, we hope to enrich the experience of every congregant and help us all have a greater connection to our community. Learn more about how you can become involved with one or more of the Temple Sinai Centers of Jewish Life by picking up a packet of Center brochures at Temple, visiting the Temple Sinai website (www.templestsinai.org) or talking with fellow congregants who have already become involved.

Welcome to Temple Sinai's Third Season of Satellite Broadcasts from the 92nd Street Y

If you are reading these words you might already know what great learning opportunities lay ahead of us. From politics (with a sarcastic twist), to feminism, to the Supreme Court, to Black-Jewish relations, to reggae hasidic music, to internationalism, to humor, to our moral obligations... we have so much to learn together by hearing from world renown experts, sharing our Jewish perspectives on their topics and e-mailing them our questions during live broadcasts. These broadcasts have been selected by you, our community of lifelong learners who have enjoyed our 92nd Street Y broadcasts. Many thanks to all those who participated in our on-line survey to select the broadcasts.

If this is all new to you, welcome. Welcome to a community of over 2,000 individual participants who have been enriched during our past two seasons. Welcome to a partnership of Pittsburgh organizations who believe that our lives are enriched by intellectual discourse and thoughtful conversation. Welcome to a world of affordable adult education that is meaningful, engaging and enjoyable.

We offer our thanks to this season's PRESENTING SPONSOR, Bernstein Law Firm, who, for the second time, has lead through example by helping us make these broadcasts possible. We thank each of our BROADCAST SPONSORS, whose dedication to adult Jewish learning will be celebrated with each broadcast they sponsor. We thank our PARTNER SYNAGOGUES who are eager to share in our vision of excellence. Please purchase tickets from their offices in order to financially support them. We thank our PRESENTING PARTNERS — Jewish Community Center of Pittsburgh; Hillel-Jewish University Center; J'burgh; and Community Day School — for understanding that collaboration builds community.

Most importantly, we thank YOU for joining us in a lifetime of Jewish learning.
